

A photograph of two seagulls standing on a rocky shore covered in seaweed. The seagull on the left is facing right with its beak open, as if calling or speaking. The seagull on the right is facing left, looking towards the first bird. The background shows calm water and more rocks with seaweed.

...may 12, 1985...

this is the last thing
that i hold as mine –
mine to keep –
mine to give away –

it has come to this –
the only offering
that's mine to give
and freely give away –

freely i've learned
the only gift
within my power to give
is myself.

©pamela swanson
www.poetpam.com