

...may 9, 2010...

along the edge of greening grass a deer catches my quiet gaze – where cedar boughs disturb a breeze weaving us immobile –

then a brown ear twitches back and liquidly she disappears into the deep of shadow trees where all is almost real – yet not.

©pamela swanson
www.poetpam.com