

A photograph of a hummingbird with iridescent green and blue feathers perched on a thin branch. The background is filled with out-of-focus reddish-brown leaves, likely from a Japanese maple tree. The lighting is soft, creating a gentle, somewhat melancholic atmosphere.

...july 22, 2018...
...(haiku)...

a hummingbird has
vanished from my world –
was it ever really here?
if no one sees my
hummingbird again
was it just a lovely dream?

and if i do not often think of you –
were you ever really here?
if i never see
you again – are you
just a dream of once upon?

©pamela swanson
www.poetpam.com