

...february 21, 2018...

a sudden icy sun prevails to drop heads of daffodils while snowdrops pull their petals in creeping back toward the bud - a last and gasping winter breath of frosted grass and icicles - a perfect moment - crystalline - then vanished - as if never been.

©pamela swanson
www.poetpam.com