

A photograph of a dirt path winding through a forest. Sunlight filters through the trees, creating a dappled pattern of light and shadow on the path and the surrounding foliage. The trees are mostly bare, suggesting late autumn or early spring. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.

...march 27 2018...

cold and cold - the rain tap-dances eyes and cheeks - as if moving backwards from daffodils to ducks -

i push into the moment walking leaden skies until a sudden sun shaft spasms out of grey -

staring through a schism of awesome majesty silver fracture into gold and sun transforms the day.

©pamela swanson
www.poetpam.com