

*...may 26, 2018...
(craig law: august 7, 1954 – may 21, 2018)*

i am – i am remembering evenings wrapped in laughing drums - where we drank each setting sun into dancing nights of long –

*i am – i am remembering
you and you my buddha friend – scrambling breakfast eggs for lunch and camping out at burning man –*

generators – tents and bikes we cycled evenings into dust that turned us into fragment ghosts where none of us were meant to last –

we travelled viking ships on wheels until dreams grew wild and died – and climbed through tipsy lighthouses as giant ladies breathed and sighed -

now it's you we are recalling as we watch a temple burn – it's you we are remembering our dearest heart and buddha friend.

©pamela swanson
www.poetpam.com

