

...march 13, 2018...

if you are me and i am you
then what is it you're teaching me?
what part of me has yet to grow
when both of us are not in flow?

if i am you and you are me what is it you really see when we are walking half apart pretending we don't want to talk?

when our words incise like knives are we wounding both ourselves pretending we don't understand the love that under-rides our cells?

if you are me and i am you
perhaps – someday – our distances will find us merging – heart and soul – to finally understand the we.